UNFOLDING OF HORRORS OF WAR IN POOR MEXICO

In his army, Gen. Pablo Gonzales 12,000, while there at least 15,000 more men under arms in Sonora and the west coast.

There are 160,000 in these armies and it costs $100 a year to keep each man in the field. Based on these figures, it now costs Mexico $96,000,000 a year for its warring elements, or a total of $384,000,000 for the four years that the conflict has raged.

$350 a Year for Ammunition.
It is figured that every Mexican soldier uses at least $350 (gold) worth of ammunition each year. This figure will soon be increased because of the jump in the price of cartridges and guns since the outbreak of the European war. Prior to the European war, becoming involved in warfare ammunition could be purchased by Mexico for $22 a thousand. Since that time the price has more than doubled, it costing $45 a thousand at the present time.

Since the outbreak of the revolution, four years ago, more than 75,000 men have met their death on the battlefields and nearly 10,000 have been maimed for life through being desperately wounded. Fully 50,000 women have been made widows by the revolts and thousands of boys and girls left orphans.

Three Mexican generals and 10 other Mexicans connected previously with the army of General Eulalio Gutierrez have been executed by Indians composing part of the Carranza army under General E. P. Nafarrete. The executions occurred some time last week at Aldamas, Nueva Leon state, according to Carranza advisers in Matamoros.

It is claimed by Carranza officers that the three generals, accompanied by 10 men, had been permitted by Gutierrez to withdraw from his army and start for the Texas border with a million and a half pesos with which to organize another revolution in Mexico. They were captured near Aldamas and promptly executed.

The list of executed included, according to statements in Matamoros, Gen. Eugenio Aguirre Benavides, Gen. Julian Delgado, Gen. Kulleraro Moran, Anton Tellez, Alfonso Bolanos Cacho, Romingo Zertuche, Ricardo Corral Terrazas, Aureliano Ruiz, Magdalena Robles. One of the party, Jose Robles, is said to have escaped during a fight preceding the capture.

VICTORY NEAR, SAYS THE FORMER ADMIRALTY HEAD

Heavy losses must be accepted on land and sea. The fleet employed there was composed of a surplus of warships, after all other needs have been provided for.

"Those who suppose Earl Kitchener embarked on these operations without thoroughly and carefully considering every requirement in relation to the army of France and Flanders are not only mistaken but are presumptuous," he continued. "In looking at our losses fairly and squarely, we must not forget the prize for which we are contending."

"The forces are within a few miles of a victory such as this war has not seen; a victory, which, when it comes, will make amends for all."

Mr. Churchill said he thought the newspapers should not attack leaders of the nation at home or abroad or publish anything calculated to make bad blood. If there were any criticism it should be in parliament. That was a matter of self preservation.

"What does the nation expect of the new cabinet?" he asked. "I will answer that in one word—Action. That is the demand; that is the need. Action, not hesitation, not discussion nor agitation. The duty lies upon the government to declare what should be done, to propose it to parliament and stand or fall by the result."

"The submarine menace has been fixed within certain limits. The personal ascendancy of our men and the superior quality of our ships on the high seas have been established beyond doubt or question."

Bigger Navy This Year.
"Our strength has been greatly increased, actually and relatively, from what it was at the beginning of the war and is growing every day by leaps and bounds in all classes of vessels needed for special purposes of war. By the end of the year, the British navy will have received reinforcements which would be incredible if they were not actual facts."

NEW METHOD TO ELIMINATE PARTY ENEMIES

FREE SAMPLES OF POISON
SENT OUT: SUICIDE RE-
VEALS GHASTLY TALE

Spencer, Ind., June 9.—With the suicide of Coroner F. Edward Drescher, who also was secretary of the Democratic county committee, the residents of this county have awakened to the fact that poison has been distributed by wholesale, either to boom business for an undertaker or to vent a political grudge. Postoffice inspectors arrived here last week and began an investigation into the sending of numerous bottles supposed to contain quinine and marked "Free sample" to prominent residents of the county. It has developed that these bottles contained stychnine and that several persons have been killed through using the "Free samples."

When Coroner Drescher learned that government agents were at work on the case, he wrote a note saying his heart was affected and he is believed to have swallowed a quantity of the same kind of poison that has been distributed so generously.

The fear that many persons had been poisoned to boom business for an undertaker was general throughout the county tonight, and those families who have lost relatives began an investigation. In nearly every instance it was found that the victims had received a "free sample" just before dying suddenly and that Drescher had been the undertaker.

Besides booming the undertaking business, Drescher is believed to have employed subtle means to avenge what he considered his political wrongs. Thirteen prominent residents have received "sample bottles." Death followed in four cases.

Personal Property, 1914 . . . 780,880
Real Estate, 1915 . . . 3,062,710
Real Estate, 1914 . . . 3,842,001
There is added to the total taxable personal of the county $210,677 more this year than in 1914, while there is a decrease of approximately a half million dollars in real estate, as against last year.

The figures for Guthrie city show an increase of $171,323 on personal property and a decrease of $179,291 in real estate over the assessment of 1914.

Assessor Carter has finished his assessment for this year and certified the valuations up to the board of equalization Tuesday. The county commissioners and the assessor are now sitting as a board of equalization to hear protests from the taxpayers of the county and city. Guthrie citizens will have their "day in court" beginning next Saturday morning.

The above figures show the valuation as it was certified to the equalization board. There is apt to be considerable change made before the board finally adjourns; at least that has been the custom in the past.

Said Assessor Carter today: "I made a careful assessment. An effort was made by myself and assistants to return as near an equitable assessment as possible. Property owners now have an opportunity to ascertain the amount of the assessment of their property compared with their neighbors' holdings and so before the county board and have it adjusted if any errors have been made."

TOMMY ATKINS KING OF YPRES FOR ONE WEEK

PRIVATE TAKES SITUATION
IN OWN HANDS WHEN CONDITION CONFRONTS

(By Associated Press.)

Dunkirk, France, June 9.—The story of the British private who made himself King of Ypres after the first bombardment of that city last November, is being told at British headquarters. When Ypres was bombarded in November, the British withdrew their troops from the town but did not remove the civil population. There was one British private who did not leave with the rest, for he was asleep in a cellar. Next morning he awoke to find Ypres without any authority, and not liking that condition of affairs, he set about governing it himself. He kept under an iron discipline, had looters shot at sight, and though himself inclined to the bottle, prevented drunkenness in others. The inhabitants called him the King of Ypres, but his kingship lasted only for a week. He was arrested by a British officer and sent before a court martial, which duly tried him, found that his efforts in the cause of order had been good, and forgave him his other delinquencies.

"GOOD-BYE" SAYS BRYAN
AS NOTE GOES

President Wilson was unchanged and that he knew that Wilson felt as warmly toward him.

There were tears in Bryan's eyes as he shook hands with his associates. The story of his flight to away the president was unfulfilled. He made an effort to align others of the cabinet with him.

The president had Bryan's resignation under consideration since last Saturday, and the secretary did not go to yesterday's cabinet meeting until the president's letter of acceptance had reached him.

Mr. Bryan, in taking leave of the state department employees, told them that the "rewards of life are not to be found in either the money we make or in the honors we enjoy." He said the "real honors are the affections we feel for each other. The best reward is the appreciation accompanied by good will."

The German note was started on the telegraph at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Dramatic Sequel.

William Jennings Bryan, three times Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States and author of nearly thirty peace treaties with the principal nations of the world, resigned as secretary of state as a dramatic sequel to his disagreement with President Wilson over the government's policy toward Germany.

The resignation was accepted by the president.

Rather than sign the document, which he believed might possibly draw the United States into war, Mr. Bryan submitted his resignation in a letter, declaring that "the issue involved is of such moment that to remain a member of the cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war."

First Dissension May 13.

The real disagreement dates back to the famous session of the cabinet when the note of May 13, following the sinking of the Lusitania, was drafted, informing Germany that the United States would not omit "any word or any act" to protect its rights. At that time Mr. Bryan made a speech counselling peaceful measures and cautious action.
